WASHINGTON, D. C., OCTOBER 17, 1923

FOR IMMEDIATE ATTENTION OF ALL OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN

For the convenience of those desiring to attend the November 10th football game between the Marine Corps team of Quantico and the University of Michigan eleven at Ann Arbor, Mich., special trains will be chartered. These will include dining cars and sleepers in which the travelers will live throughout the outward and return journeys, with the exception noted below in connection with the stay at Detroit.

The specials will leave Washington at about 4 o'clock on the afternoon of November 9, arriving early next morning at Detroit. At that city a stop will be made for the purpose of a parade through the city streets. Trains will then move to Ann Arbor, returning immediately after the game to Detroit. On reaching Detroit the second time enlisted men will be provided with hotel accommodations (price of which is included in the quotation below). Officers and their wives will not be furnished hotel accommodations, but will be the guests of certain citizens of Detroit, and this will result in a slight reduction of the price quoted below (reduction estimated at about $5).

The special trains will leave Detroit about 11:00 p. m. of November 11 and will proceed to Niagara Falls. At that place the entire party will disembark and visit the Falls for several hours, returning to the trains for the homeward journey to Washington about 4 p. m. Return arrival at Washington will be on the morning of the 13th, at an hour to be determined later.

Price for the entire trip, including all meals and services and accommodations, both on the trains and during the visits to Detroit and Ann Arbor and Niagara Falls: Forty dollars for each person. Rebate to officers on account of special Detroit arrangements will be announced later.

All reservations must be made at once through the office of the comamndant's aide-de-camp. They must be in writing and must clearly specify the total number of persons to be included.

MARINES WITH SOUSA

A detachment of Marines from the Brooklyn Navy Yard, under the command of First Lieut. Mehlinger, took part in the concert given by Lieut. Comdr. John Philip Sousa and his famous band, Sunday, October 7, at Madison Square Garden, New York City.

The Marines had reserved seats and, coupled with the exceptional music given by Sousa's Band of 250 picked musicians, it was without a doubt a real treat for all concerned. At the end of the first interval the Marines and a party of blue jackets stood at salute as the band played the "Semper Fidelis" March.

Then at the end of the concert the Marines marched off to the tune of the National Anthem, with "Old Glory" in the lead. The concert was a real success, with most of the high naval officers of this district present, including Rear Admiral Plunkett, Commandant of this, the Third Naval District. There were volunteers aplenty to go, as everybody snapped into it with real Marine Corps spirit.

"LEATHERNECK" TO PUBLISH SPECIAL NUMBERS

Starting next month THE LEATHERNECK will publish a series of issues, each devoted to one of the posts of the Corps. Each issue will be freely illustrated with pictures and will contain a brief history of the post concerned. This material is being put together at the present time. A photographer from THE LEATHERNECK has already taken many interesting pictures at several east coast posts. When this series is completed the subscriber will have in his possession one of the most interesting collections ever published.

MARINE CREW WINS

Rowing a short, powerful stroke with quick recovery, ideally suited to rough going, the Marine division crew recently won the second heat of the interdivisional regatta. The course was about one mile. The time was slow. They will row again against the Fifth Division crew and the Boilermen in the finals. The men of the Fifth are favorites.

The Second Division boat finished two lengths behind the Marines. It was followed by the Third Division with the Electricians second. The personnel of the winning boat was Brown, coxswain; Walli, Jorgenson, Reed, Hubble, Crass, Bain, Vaughn, Marcus, Angle, Anderson and Fellows—From the Keystone, U. S. S. Pennsylvania.

ORGANIZES NEW MARINE CORPS LEAGUE

Sergeant Ted Hinton, Recruiter at Waco, Texas, recently organized "The Laster-Lange Detachment," Marine Corps League, at Waco, Texas. The charter has been closed with twenty-five members. Among the officers elected, Mr. S. D. Rattan, an ex-Marine, at present studying for the ministry at Baylor University was elected Chaplain. The detachment is planning to serve a "Bean dinner," in a downtown store at two bits per stomachful on October 30, the opening of the Cotton Palace Exposition.

MARINE CORPS INSTITUTE LOSES A HARD ONE

The football team representing the Marine Corps Institute stepped out and tackled the leading team of the District. The final score was 7-6. In the second quarter McNally intercepted a forward pass and raced through the entire Mercury team for a touchdown. The try for the extra point failed. In the third quarter a Mercury end dived on a punt which may or may not have been touched by the Marine back. That gave them the ball and a chance to score. After four tries, in which they made three yards the touchdown was registered. On the try for goal Hochberger, who played a stellar game at guard, broke through and blocked the kick. However the referee ruled the Marine end offside and awarded the extra point as a penalty. Regardless of the justice of the ruling, it was certainly a hard one to lose.

NOTES FROM RECRUITERS

Sergeant Haskell Holstine and Mertie L. Douglass left Houston, Texas, at 6:00 A. M., October 1, 1923, for itinerant recruiting duty at Austin, Texas, in connection with the Texas State Exposition. They established a tent station inside the fair grounds and distributed a large amount of literature.—From the Southwestern Agitator.

NOTES FOR PEARL HARBOR

(Reenlisted from the Pearl Harbor Weekly)

Members of the Barracks Detachment returned from the range last Friday, with 89½ per cent of the detail qualifying.

We are in hopes that the next detail will qualify 100 per cent.

Major General Wendell C. Neville, Commanding the Department of the Pacific, arrived here recently on the U. S. A. T. Thomas for the purpose of inspecting the Marine Barracks.

Attention! The new Post Exchange opened recently, also the Clubhouse. These two buildings are for the benefit and entertainment of all concerned, and it is expected that they will be well patronized.

"Spud" Murphy has given up the idea of trying to find the "three spotter." That's all right, "Spud," Corporal Minor is not here to bother you now.

Football has been practiced daily at the Marine parade grounds. Some very promising material is now kicking the "pig skin."

Some very good alibis are produced when a man can't return from the range and claim to be an expert rifleman. Corporal Hopkins says that he would have made it if some one had no stepped on his rifle and bent the "BARREL."

OFFICERS TO HAVE EVENING DRESS

From: The Major General Commandant.

To: All Commissioned Officers of the Marine Corps.

Subject: Procurement of evening dress uniform.

1. All commissioned officers of the Marine Corps on duty in the United States, serving afloat, and returning from foreign service to the United States for duty, are directed to provide themselves with the evening dress uniform by October 1, 1924.

2. The evening dress uniform will comprise all the articles enumerated in paragraph 103, Uniform Regulations, Marine Corps, 1922. Changes No. 1 to such regulations, soon to be published, will authorize the wearing with this uniform of the white undress cap, when appropriate, as an alternate to the dress cap.

JOHN A. LEJEUNE.

RECRUITERS ON THE JOB

A recruiters job is not only to go out and to get men. It is that of course, but it is much bigger than that. In the recruiters hands to large extent the reputation of the Corps in many cities rests. The recruiter is a bear for publicity but he is actually more than that, for in getting his publicity, he is often of very great service to his community and that is in a nut shell what the Marine Corps is organized for.

An example of the service performed by recruiters and recruiting offices is furnished by the happenings when the news of President Harding's death reached the various cities. Many business houses and many citizens were desirous of making a proper display of the national colors but were not sure about the proper manner. In nearly every large city the telephone in the recruiting office was kept busy answering inquiries. In one recruiting office fifteen requests for information of this nature was received in an hour and in another, twenty-seven. Down in Texas, Sergeant Hinton mailed copies of instruction regarding the use of the flag to all prominent business houses.

Service is what the Marine Corps is for and the fact that we do render service is the reason you can make any claim about the excellence of the Marine Corps in almost any part of the country and find your hearer will go you one better.

Portrait of a Beautiful Girl

Crimson cheeks and lips, dainty finger tips,
Slender ankles draped in silken hose,
Beauty, Charm, Grace, and a Dana Gibson face,
Form divinely wrapped in smart-cut clothes,
Lovely, young and sweet, wistful and petite,
Doesn't taste of ciggies when she's kissed,
Culture, manner, style, worth a feller's while,
I wonder—does a gal like this exist.

Same Here

Give my regards to Main Street,
Remember me to Court House Square,
Give my love to the old town pump,
And the gossips that are loafing there.
Give my regards to the constable,
Give the deepo gang a cheer,
I think a lot of the old home town,
But I'm going to stay right here.

The North wind doth blow and soon we'll have snow, then what will the boys who didn't save their money DO THEN.
Poor Things.

Doc, I just swallowed a frog do you think I'll croak?

I usually go to bed between ten and eleven. That's too many in one bed.

Daisy—I see they have machines now that tell when a man is lying. Did you know that?

Willie—Know that? Good lord, I was married to one for six years.

I hear that he drinks something awful.

Yes, I know, I tasted it myself once.

She—A penny for your thoughts.
He, Mr. Staylate—I was thinking of going.

Her Father (at head of stairs)—Give him a dollar, Viola, it's worth it.

Her Secret Safe

It was late at night. No one seemed to be about and the poor woman was very seasick. She thought if she could only get up to the deck a few minutes the fresh air would do her good. So, in her nighty, she was crawling up the stairs when she met an equally sick man coming down. She gave a feeble scream of embarrassment. "Don't worry lady," the man groaned, "I'll never live to tell it."

A young boxer with splendid physique
Received a hard blow on the bique;
His head hit the ground
And he didn't come round
To his senses for more than a wique.

"Well," said the parrot, after listening to the lecturer on evolution, "at any rate no one can make a monkey out of me."

"Willie, stop asking so many questions. Curiosity killed the cat."

"Mother, what did the cat want to know?"

Phil—I see that Steinmetz says we shall have the four-hour work day in 2023.

Whil—I'm living a century before my time!

"And how have you been getting on,
Mrs. Mumble?"

"Ah, miss, not too well. My poor husband 'ad a parallel stroke, and we've 'ad a 'ard time to make both ends meet."

Statistically Speaking

A man went into Cohen's Book Store and asked: "Have you a copy of 'Who's Who' and 'What's What' by Jerome K.
Jerome?"

Cohen replied: "No, sir, but ve got 'Who's He' and 'Vat's He Got,' by Bradstreet."

Klan, and swiped our last clean sheet."

Wanted His Services

The great detective stood before the rich merchant, waiting for his instructions.

"It's this way," began the merchant.
"I have been robbed of hundreds of thousands of dollars. A rascal has gone about the country pretending to be a collector of ours. He has simply coined money. Why, in a week he collected more than all our travelers put together.
He must be found as quickly as possible.
Spare no expense."

"Right," said the detective. "Within a week he will be in prison."

"Prison! What do you mean?" cried the merchant. "I don't want him arrested; I want to engage him."

We Have No 'Gators

The Florida beach and blue sea looked inviting to the tourist from the north, but before venturing out to swim he thought to make sure.

"You're certain there are no alligators here?" he inquired of the guide.

"Nossuh," replied that functionary, grinning broadly. "Ain' no 'gators hyah."

Reassured, the tourist started out. As the water lapped about his chest he called back:

"What makes you so sure there aren't any alligators?"

"Dey's got too much sense," bellowed the guide. "De sharks done skeered dem all away."

Mother—John talks in his sleep, what shall I do to him?

"Go to sleep and talk back."

* * * * *

Ig—Did you see where a fellow went 65 days without a bath?

Natz—No. I never read dirty jokes.

* * * * *

Barber—Do you mean to say that you shave yourself all the time?

Billie—Well, not exactly, I stop occasionally for my meals.

* * * * *

Nora—I understand that Jones's wife is tight.

Fletch—Tight—Why she uses barbed wire for clothesline so the birds can't sit down.

* * * * *

Tommie—Were you named after Christopher Columbus?

Chris—Yes, about 250 years.

* * * * *

So Miss Rowland is angry with her doctor, why is that?

"He tactlessly remarked that he would soon have her looking like her old sweet self."

S. O. L.

It was a rainy night and two Gyrenes were motoring back from Washington to Quantico when all at once something went blooey; it was a bow-out, they had no spare tire and as it looked as tho' it would rain forever they decided to stay all night at a nearby farmhouse; after waking the folks up at the house they asked, Can we stay here all night?
The answer came back. Yes, and all next week, too, if you want to.

No Trouble

"It's such a bother deciding about holidays."

"It doesn't bother me. The boss tells me when to go and the wife tells me where."

Bring in the Winner

"That lobster has only one claw," said
Pat, eyeing the "broiled alive" in a cafe.

"You see, lobsters fight with each other and occasionally one loses a claw," explained the waiter.

"All right," replied Pat, pushing back the plate, "bring me the winner."

Jelly Beans

There's a candy called the jelly bean.
It's round with a thin glazed surface, multi-colored, sticky inside, sickeningly sweetened, and of light weight. It's position as a confection is low. Flappers eat it by the pound.

Among modern males there has developed a type with low rounded head shaped like the jelly bean. He wears his hair long, as all women once did and some still do, slicked back, stuck down firmly and glazed with sickeningly scented pomade or hair trainer, and curved in gracefully above the nape of the neck. His clothes are multi-colored, frequently sticky. Inside his head is soft and of lightweight. He is grimy behind the ears and his finger nails are dirty.
His shoes aren't shined and usually they have holes in them. His place among men is low. Work he despises. He claims the ladies to be his meat. The Latin lover of the screen is his ideal.

He's a jelly bean.
He's food for flappers.
He doesn't amount to much.

WILL M. C. I. COURSES FIT ONE FOR COLLEGE ENTRANCE?

A school officer writes as follows: "I have a man who wants to know what college entrance credit he will receive by reason of his having completed our High School Subjects Course. Do we give high school credit units? If not, how should I handle this man?"

The reply to this letter follows: "It should be understood that high school credit units are based upon study hours. Since it is impossible for us to measure the number of hours spent in the preparation of a subject, we cannot attempt to score the work of a student on a point or unit basis. The best we can do, therefore, is to assist a person to take the college board examinations, which are held in various parts of the country.

"The M. C. I. can help much in preparing for these examinations on certain subjects. While completion of our high school subjects will fit a person for the entrance examination requirements of some institutions, other institutions may require preparation in additional subjects, or they may require more extensive preparation on certain subjects than is given in our course.

"Several well-known educational institutions of high standing, notably Wellesley College, Smith College, Lafayette College and the University of California require applicants to pass entrance examinations regardless of where the preparation was made. The following is quoted from a letter recently received from the Director of the University of California, by the I. C. S., whose courses are taught by the M. C. I.:

"I. C. S. students are, I take it, in the same situation with students studying in the University of California Extension Division. They may take the college board examinations which are held in various parts of the country, or the entrance examinations given at the University of California. The latter examinations are held twice a year, namely, in August and January. You will note that a student in our Extension Division may not gain any credits toward entrance examinations. Some of our courses yield credit, but it can be applied toward a degree only after a student has entered the University. The faculty requires that he pass examinations for entrance in the manner that I have indicated."

"Any correspondence school claiming that graduation from their course will entitle a person to entrance to any standard university or college—simply on the face of their certificate—is making a very broad statement—a statement it positively cannot prove. The letter reproduced above from the University of California settles that. It also makes plain the fact that the entrance requirements of higher institutions are based upon what an applicant knows, rather than upon the number of high school credits he possesses."

The $12 a week mechanic who became a millionaire!

TWENTY-THREE years ago, John C. Wahl was working as a mechanic in Peoria, Illinois, at $12 a week.

Today, he is a millionaire—having an income that runs into six figures—nationally and internationally known as the inventor of the Wahl Adding Machine, the Wahl Fountain Pen, and President of The Wahl Company, manufacturers of the famous Eversharp pencil.

It is interesting to note that the change for the better in the life of John C. Wahl came the day he saw an advertisement that hit him straight between the eyes. As he puts it, "it told how the International Correspondence Schools could make a draftsman of a fellow without interfering with his daily work." That day, John C. Wahl enrolled and started to build for the future. His present success is proof that he builded well.

"Pick the line of work you like best," he said the other day, "and stick to it. Study hard and success will take care of itself. Nothing is impossible when a man makes up his mind that he's going to get ahead."

John C. Wahl is just one of thousands of I. C. S. students who, by study and close application to business, have made good in a big way. The lives of such men should be an inspiration and a guide to every man who wants a better job and a bigger salary.

If the I. C. S. can smooth the way to success for other men, it can help you. If it can help other men to go forward to better jobs or to success in businesses of their own, it can surely help you, too.

One hour a day, spent with the I. C. S. in your own home, will prepare you for the position you want in the work you like best.

At least find out how by marking and mailing this coupon. It doesn't obligate you in any way, but it may be the means of changing your entire life.

Where He Could See Best

A Northern man, spending the summer in the South, went to see the last game of a series between two local teams. For a time he could not observe any umpire, but at last he spied him sitting up in the grandstand among the spectators.

"Great guns, man!" the Northerner exclaimed to a native. "What's the umpire doing up in the grandstand?"

"Well," the native explained, "the spectators used to accuse him of bum work so much that he allowed that if the folks up in the grandstand could see every play so durned good, he'd better go up there to do his umpirin'."

Quick Lunch

He was unaware of the eccentricities to be found in the Wild West when he entered what seemed to be the only hotel in the place. After ushering him to a table and giving the stranger a glass of ice water, the waiter inquired:

"Will you have sausage on toast?"

"No, I never eat 'em," the guest replied.

"In that case," said the waiter, "dinner is over."

"He giveth His beloved sleep."

"Who was there?"

"All the beloved, apparently."

Mild But Suggestive

The more than usual lack of intelligence among the Boots that morning had got under the sergeant's skin.

"Squad is dismissed," he said exaggeratedly. "Please don't flap your ears as you go to quarters."
